

Sushi Saito ▲

Sushi Saito is topping most people's lists of the best sushi restaurants in Tokyo at the moment, thanks to chef Takashi Saito's meticulous sourcing and ageing of ingredients, the seasoning of his rice (a little saltier than some, and unusually using red vinegar) and the balance of temperatures, textures and flavours. Until recently, Sushi Saito was located in a basement car park, although that didn't deter Michelin, which awarded the restaurant three stars. Now at a slightly more salubrious address, it still has just eight seats. Joël Robuchon has called it the 'best sushi restaurant in the world'. 1st floor Ark Hills South Tower, 1-4-5 Roppongi, +81 3 3589 4412
